New Employment Law Update: Unfair Dismissal and the Changing Employment Law Landscape

Bitesize Workshop

Date: 29 September 2026 (45min + 15mins Q&A)

Venue: Microsoft Teams Online Platform

Fee: £27 + VAT per person

With major reforms reshaping unfair dismissal rights and raising expectations around fair process, managers need clarity and confidence in how they make and document decisions. Updates under the Employment Rights Act 2025, proposed changes to qualifying service, and increased tribunal scrutiny mean that inconsistent or poorly evidenced decisions now carry greater legal and organisational risk.

This short, bitesize workshop gives managers a concise, practical overview of what constitutes a fair dismissal, how to follow a reasonable and consistent process, and how upcoming legislative changes may affect everyday management decisions. Using realistic scenarios, it builds confidence in handling conduct, capability, performance and probation issues in a way that is fair, defensible and aligned with current law.

The session also highlights key reforms shaping the employment landscape, including:

- Employment Rights Bill proposals - reducing unfair dismissal qualifying service from two years to six months
- Employment Rights Act 2025 updates - strengthened expectations around consultation, evidence and procedural fairness
- Case-law trends - tribunals placing greater weight on documentation, consistency and early intervention

These changes collectively raise the bar for managers, making fair process and good record-keeping essential.

This session explores the core principles of unfair dismissal under UK law and how the evolving legal landscape affects organisational practice. Participants work through common scenarios involving conduct, capability, performance, probation and redundancy, learning how to apply fair-process principles in real-world situations.

The workshop focuses on practical steps managers can take to reduce legal and employee-relations risks, improve decision-making and ensure consistency across teams.
